ASVAB Career Exploration Program (CEP) Components

Use of the Federally-funded ASVAB CEP continues to increase with over 3.4M students participating in the last five years! The ASVAB is an aptitude assessment used for career exploration, military entrance and classification, and some states use the ASVAB as a graduation requirement (a free option for your students). But, the ASVAB is only one part of the ASVAB CEP. Isn't it time you learned more about all of the ASVAB CEP components?

Registration*:

Register for sessions two ways!

- 1) Complete the online registration form, here.
- 2) Email asvabcep@gmail.com to request information and register.

Dates:

1pm (CST) every third Thursday of the month,
November 2020-October 2021

Content Area:

Career Development and Counseling: The ASVAB CEP consists of several main components - the ASVAB, an interest inventory based on John Holland's RIASEC codes called Find Your Interests (FYI), and career exploration via the OCCU-Find, classroom activities, My Portfolio, and CareersintheMilitary.com.

Presenters:

Shannon Salyer, Ph. D., Executive Program Manager

NBCC CE Hours 1*

Objectives:

- Differentiate between the different components of the ASVAB CEP.
- Identify the two missions of the ASVAB CEP.
- Explain the general function and predictive ability of the ASVAB.
- Articulate how the ASVAB fits into the ASVAB CEP.
- Explain how Holland's RIASEC types help students with career exploration.
- Articulate how the Find Your Interests (FYI) functions and why it uses gender-based reporting.
- Explain how the results of the ASVAB and FYI can be used in the OCCU-Find to provide the basis of meaningful career exploration.
- Lists sources of OCCU-Find job data and how it's used to inform career planning.
- Describe personalized career planning tools.
- Identify different user groups who can benefit from Careers in the Military.
- Prepare students to conduct informed research on military options and seek out recruiters.

*As the ASVAB CEP is a federally-funded program, there is no cost to attend the session for CE Hours. However, if you have registered for a session and cannot attend as planned, please contact us via email at asvabcep@gmail.com. For questions regarding the session, you may also contact Kimberley Doherty at (847) 688-3680 ext 7508.
